city of Salem was burning itself out today in the leveled ruins. City officials figure the total loss at $10,-000,000.

The burned district followed the lines of a rough semi-circle three miles in length and varying in width from a half mile to a mile and a half. At least 10,000 persons, a fourth of the city's population was made homeless. Thousands spent last night in the open. Many hundreds were sheltered in schools, churches and public buildings in this city and Beverly.

Before the fire was fairly checked relief measures and plans for rebuildthe night here.

Relief for the thousands of sufferof half of the city were still smouldering, actual want had been met and steps were taken for business-like management of the situation.

The greatest loss has fallen upon the factory employes, chiefly French-Canadians and Polanders. They comprise a majority of the ten thousand who are homeless and they have lost not only their homes and their personal belongings but their employment. The loss to the milling companies, commercial houses, city institutions and churches is protected, to a large extent, by insurance.

Adjusters estimate the total money loss at $10,000,000. The loss of life, so far as known, is restricted to three persons. The city government today adopted a relief plan. A telegram received by Mayor Hurley from Secretary of War Garrison, at Washington, said that all necessary tents and equipment would be furnished by the national government.

Washington, June 26 .-- Alfredo Breceda, personal representative of General Carranza, reached Washington today from Saltillo, bringing communications believed to have a bearing on the proposed informal negotiations for the pacification of Mexico. Breceda, while declining to make a statement, declared that some definite announcement as to the purposes of General Carranza might be expected within a short time.

The Constitutionalists of Mexico are determined to carry their military campaign to a conclusion regardless of participation in informal mediation conferences, desired by the United States. Their plan was indicated on the arrival of Alfredo Breceda, who came to confer with Carranza's Washington agents.

It was learned that General Villa plans to attack San Luis Potosi next week and expects later to fight the Federals in their last stand at Querc-

Soon after his arrival Mr. Breceda received a telegram from General Carranza announcing that the first chief had received assurances of cooperation and support from all the leading generals of the revolution, including Villa, and he wished the people of the United States to know that the cause of the revolutionary movement was progressing without dissention.

Churches, Schools, Important Industrial and Commercial Plants and One Thousand Residences Razed by the Fire, Which Raged For Hours. Several Lives Believed Lost and Scores of Persons Injured.

Salem, Mass., June 26.-Fire which started in the heart of the leather district swept over one-half of this city of 44,000 souls, destroying 1,000 homes, many of the more important industrial plants and entailing a loss roughly estimated at from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000. Between 15,000 and 20, 000 persons are homeless.

No deaths have been reported, although there is grave fear that there may have been fatalities in the French district, made up of many tenements, which were swept away. The fire raged furiously for six hours.

Fifty men and women, burned while trying to escape from their homes or injured in rescuing their worldly belongings, were taken to the Salem hospital, but the hospital was threatened by the raging flames and it was necessary to carry these fire victims as well as the regular patients to places of safety.

Starts In Leather Plant.

The fire started at the plant of the Karn Leather company in Boston while in 1913 exports of manufacstreet, where seventy-five hands were tures were more than six times the at work. All escaped, although many were obliged to jump from second and third story windows. The fire spread to the residential section in Ward 3, where it destroyed from fifty to seven ty-five houses. Then it continued swirling through the dwellings into Ward 4, and finally reached Ward 5 where the most fashionable folk of the city live. The flames licked up the handsome homes almost the entire length of Lafayette street.

Many schools went down before the flames. All the houses on the side streets west of Lafayette street were

When the fire leaped over into the French district, which is populated by at least 10.000 persons, there was great dfliculty in arousing the residents to their danger. As a result it is believed that men and women may have been prevented from escaping as the fire hemmed them in. The buildings in this section were largely four and five story structures, each tenanted by several families.

From this point the fire attacked mill No. 5 of the Faumkeag Cotton gation" which contains numerous company, which gave employment to other facts, such as whale fisheries, ,500 persons. The mill was destroyed. Five plants in the lower part of Ward 5 were burned.

St. Joseph's Catholic church, convent and parochial school were wiped out. The orphan asy'um, conducted by the city, also caught fire after twenty-five sisters had escorted their 150 charges to St. Mary's school. The asylum property was destroyed.

A thrill went over the city later when a fire started in the Salem oil works, in North Salem. There was a great, explosion and a few minutes later the heavens were red. At least a dozen houses adjoining the oil works were soon ablaze.

Five companies of local militia were ordered out to police the city, help the homeless and prevent looting. During he fire the streets contained long ines of autos, wagons, pushcarts and every other kind of conveyance, all loaded with furniture taken from homes in the path of the blaze. Fire companies from a dozen towns aided the local firemen.

The Voyage of the "America"

Another attempt is to be made by man to cross the Atlantic ocean by way of the aerial route.

This time the attempt will be made with the hydroaeroplane—the frailest of the aerial craft.

Daring navigators of the air have crossed the English channel in the feathery biplanes and monoplanes, but so far Ah, happy he who, when life's evils no one has yet proven that he was possessed of enough of that reckless spirit of adventure to make an attempt to cross the broad Atlantic ocean in a contrivance so insecure and as vet. so uncertain.

Monster dirigibles have been constructed on both sides of the Atlantic and quite a number of balloonists have signified a willingness to attempt a crossing suspended from one of the big gas balloons. Several times an actual attempt to cross with a dirigible balloon has been made, but in each instance failure has been the result.

At Hammondsport, New York, there has been constructed the hydro-aeroplane America equipped with the best engine man can devise and money can buy and constructed of the very best materials—wood, steel, iron and aluminum—that can be

But with all the care, the time, and the money that has been spent in preparing the air craft, it is at best a feeble contrivance with which to challenge the moody temperament of of the elements, as they form in stormy whirl-winds, in steady winds or treacherous cross currents above the surface of the

In the hydro-aeroplane America, perfect as it is, in construction, measured by the standards in aircraft building, man has at best only a toy with which to defy the elements.

It is a matching of the wit which nature has given to man with the mindless winds and storms which nature controls.

Man knows his own limitations, but is not now and never! will be fully appreciative of the power of nature's unbridled

Perhaps it is well for his successes that he is not. He has dared the winds and the storms and in many instances, has found his way to victory after a hard fight.

There are now and there have always been, and probably always will be men who are willing to take the dare and make an attempt which means a journey into the unknown and against the unknown.

Just what practical good can come of the experiment to be tried next week even if the hydro-aeroplane succeeds in landing safely on the other side, is not just now apparent. But benefits of inestimable value have been secured to mankind before this time by just such reckless daring as will be exhibited in making the attempt to cross the Atlantic in the America.

Many of the older people of this generation are skeptical of course, and either cannot, or refuse to see any possibility of good to come of the trial, but after all, who knows that the America will not be the pioneer ship of a vast fleet of aircraft that will in fifty years, or even less, from this day, be crossing the Atlantic ocean high up in the air and with comparative safety.

Every lover of humanity, ever admirer of that spirit of adventure which has opened the world and its possessions to man and brought vast domains under the control of Christian civilization, every patriotic American hopes that the good airship America and her fearless pilot will land safely on the other side, victor in their battle with the untried forces of the You shouldn't do such reckless air and that the possessor of Yankee ingenuity and Yankee pluck will be the first to cross the Atlantic high up in the air.

While few-very few-people can "see any sense" in making the attempt at this time, there are fewer yet who will not feel a hope for the success of the enterprise and none who will fail to feel the thrill of pride if the new world to which the intrepid Genoese sailed in the fifteenth century across the supposedly limitless deep will be the first to show the way back they have a bulldog. I've busted sevthrough the supposedly boundless air.

American Woman Misjudged by Mass of Europeans as of Spendthrift Type

By ALFRED CAPUS, French Playwright and Editor Le Figaro

MERICA IS SO FAR REMOVED FROM EUROPEAN HABITS OF THOUGHT THAT IT BREEDS ITS OWN DISTINCTIVE TYPE OF WOMANHOOD, WHICH, AT THE PRESENT TIME, IS DOING MORE REAL GOOD THAN ANY OF THESE SOCIETY INTELLECTUELLES.

The American woman is misjudged by the great mass of Europeans s of the SPENDTHRIFT TYPE, lavishing millions of dollars on letes, dresses and jewels because that is how she is revealed to them by Rewspapers, just as the untraveled American imagines the typical reachman to be a FROG EATING FELLOW who affects peg topped trousers, weird top hats and spends most of his time dueling.

IT IS TRUE THAT, AS A WHOLE, THE AMERICAN PEOPLE SPEND MONEY FREELY, BUT I READ THAT AS A SIGN THAT THEY ARE MORE HIGHLY CIVILIZED THAN MORE PARSIMONIOUS PEOPLE.

LIFE'S COMMON THINGS.

The simple common things of life

The hours that pass in their accustomed way,

The night which brings sweet sleep to close the day,

The kindly loves that vil the house-

The friends that shared our childhood's happy plays,

Who passed with us through learning's open door,

And found with us the heights

These are the things which memory enshrines

And brings to us amid life's storm and stress,

WISON PREDICTS

tant address to the Virginia Editorial association at the White House President Wilson detailed his reasons for insisting upon completion of the antitrust program at this session of congress. The president said:

"We are in the presence of a business situation which is variously interpreted in Washington. Through the bureau of commerce and other instrumentalities at our disposal and through advices which come in to us from all parts of the nation we are perhaps in a position to judge of the actual condition of business better than those can judge who are at any other single point in the country; and I want to say to you that as a matter of fact the signs of a very strong business revival are becoming more and more evident from day to day. On all sides it is admitted that there are processes of business in this country which ought to be corrected; but the correction has been postponed, and in proportion to the postponement has increased the fever of apprehension.

"There is nothing more fatal to business than to be kept guessing from month to month and from year to year whether something serious is in particular is going to happen to it if anything does.

full of interrogation points, for ten years and more. Then came an adcorrection of admitted evil, a very clear program, disclosed so far as possible in a general way in its particulars as well as in its general features. HORSE STRUCK And the administration proceeded to carry out this program.'

The president referred to the enactment of the tariff bill and currency reform bill and the opposition encountered to their enactment, and said:

"Then we advanced to the trust program and again the same dread, the same hesitation, the same urgency that the thing be postponed. It will not be postponed, and it will not be demolished. When the car struck the of business. We know what we are ditch by the roadside. doing; we propose to do it under the advice of men who Aunderstand the business of the country, and we know that the effect is going to be exactly what the effect of the currency reform | | | | LAND was-a sense of relief and security.

Because when the program is finished, it is finished; the interrogation points are rubbed off the slate; business is given its constitutional freedom constitution. And just as soon as it gets that freedom, there will be a boom in business in this country such as we have never witnessed in the United States.

"I, as a friend of business and a servant of the country, would not dare stop in this program and bring on another long period of agitation. Agitation longer continued would be fatal to the business of this country, and if this program is delayed there will come agitation with every letter in the word a capital letter.'

Today airships constitute one of he most important factors in modern warfare. All the great world powers have equipped their armies with fleets of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons, and scientists are bending every energy toward inventing new explosives and perfecting means of hurling them from the clouds with greater accuracy. Some authorities 10...12:30 p. m.d 15...7:30 p. m.d even predict that the next great war will be fought in the clouds by squadrons of airships.

Today American aviators are scouting around Vera Cruz, and are demonstrating their marvelous utility. Equipped with the latest devices the ultra-modern army scout can fly over the enemy's country, sketch or photograph the topography of the land below the forts, cities and troop positions. By wireless telegraphy he can send back the information to his Relief for the thousands of sufferof half of the city were still smouldering, actual want had been met and steps were taken for business-like management of the situation.

The greatest loss has fallen upon the factory employes, chiefly French-Canadians and Polanders. They comprise a majority of the ten thousand who are homeless and they have lost not only their homes and their personal belongings but their employment. The loss to the milling companies, commercial houses, city institutions and churches is protected, to a large extent, by insurance.

Adjusters estimate the total money loss at $10,000,000. The loss of life, so far as known, is restricted to three persons. The city government today adopted a relief plan. Salem, Mass., June 26.- Fire which started in the heart of the leather district swept over one-half of this city of 44,000 souls, destroying 1,000 homes, many of the more important roughly estimated at from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000. Between 15,000 and 20,-000 persons are homeless.

No deaths have been reported, although there is grave fear that there may have been fatalities in the French district, made up of many tenements, which were swept away. The fire raged furiously for six hours.

Fifty men and women, burned while trying to escape from their homes or injured in rescuing their worldly belongings, were taken to the Salem hospital, but the hospital was threatened by the raging flames and it was necessary to carry these fire victims as well as the regular patients to places of safety.

The fire spread to the residential section in Ward 3, where it destroyed from fifty to seventy-five houses. Then it continued swirling through the dwellings into Ward 4, and finally reached Ward 5, the Fire, Which Raged For Hours, the city live. The flames licked up Several Lives Believed Lost and the handsome homes almost the entire length of Lafayette street.

Many schools went down before the flames. All the houses on the side streets west of Lafayette street were destroyed.

When the fire leaped over into the French district, which is populated by at least 10.000 persons, there was industrial plants and entailing a loss great difficulty in arousing the resicents to their danger. As a result it is believed that men and women may have been prevented from escaping as the fire hemmed them in. The buildings in this section were largely four and five story structures, each tenanted by several families.

From this point the fire attacked mill No. 5 of the Faumkeag Cotton company, which gave employment to ,500 persons. The mill was destroyed. Five plants in the lower part of Ward were burned.

St. Joseph's Catholic church, convent and parochial school were wiped The orphan asy'um, conducted by the city, also caught fire after twenty-five sisters had escorted their 150 charges to St. Mary's school. The asylum property was destroyed.

A thrill went over the city later when a fire started in the Salem oil works, in North Salem. There was a great, explosion and a few minutes later the heavens were red. At least a dozen houses adjoining the oil works were soon ablaze. Five companies of local militia were ordered out to police the city, help the homeless and prevent looting. The Voyage of the "America"

Another attempt is to be made by man to cross the Atlantic ocean by way of the aerial route.

This time the attempt will be made with the hydroaeroplane—the frailest of the aerial craft.

Daring navigators of the air have crossed the English channel in the feathery biplanes and monoplanes, but so far Ah, happy he who, when life's evils no one has yet proven that he was possessed of enough of that reckless spirit of adventure to make an attempt to cross the broad Atlantic ocean in a contrivance so insecure and as yet, so uncertain.

Monster dirigibles have been constructed on both sides of the Atlantic and quite a number of balloonists have signified a willingness to attempt a crossing suspended from one of the big gas balloons. Several times an actual attempt to cross with a dirigible balloon has been made, but in each instance failure settled Friday and Saturday; probhas been the result.

At Hammondsport, New York, there has been constructed the hydro-aeroplane America equipped with the best engine Fair Friday; Saturday unsettled, man can devise and money can buy and constructed of the very best materials—wood, steel, iron and aluminum—that can be obtained.

But with all the care, the time, and the money that has been spent in preparing the air craft, it is at best a feeble con- Friday, except generally fair southtrivance with which to challenge the moody temperament of of the elements, as they form in stormy whirl-winds, in steady winds or treacherous cross currents above the surface of the

In the hydro-aeroplane America, perfect as it is, in construction, measured by the standards in aircraft building, man has at best only a toy with which to defy the elements.

It is a matching of the wit which nature has given to man! with the mindless winds and storms which nature controls.

Man knows his own limitations, but is not now and never) will be fully appreciative of the power of nature's unbridled!

Perhaps it is well for his successes that he is not. He has dared the winds and the storms and in many instances, has found his way to victory after a hard fight.

There are now and there have always been, and probably always will be men who are willing to take the dare and make an attempt which means a journey into the unknown and against the unknown.

Just what practical good can come of the experiment to be tried next week even if the hydro-aeroplane succeeds in landing safely on the other side, is not just now apparent. But benefits of inestimable value have been secured to mankind before this time by just such reckless daring as will be exhibited in making the attempt to cross the Atlantic in the America.

Many of the older people of this generation are skeptical of course, and either cannot, or refuse to see any possibility of good to come of the trial, but after all, who knows that the America will not be the pioneer ship of a vast fleet of aircraft that will in fifty years, or even less, from this day, be crossing the Atlantic ocean high up in the air and with comparative

While few-very few-people can "see any sense" in making the attempt at this time, there are fewer yet who will not feel a hope for the success of the enterprise and none who will fail to feel the thrill of pride if the new world to which the intrepid Genoese sailed in the fifteenth century across the supposedly limitless deep will be the first to show the way back they have a bulldog. By ALFRED CAPUS, French Playwright and Editor Le Figaro

MERICA IS SO FAR REMOVED FROM EUROPEAN HABITS OF THOUGHT THAT IT BREEDS ITS OWN DISTINCTIVE TYPE OF WOMANHOOD, WHICH, AT THE PRESENT TIME, IS DOING MORE REAL GOOD THAN ANY OF THESE SOCIETY INTELLECTUELLES.

The American woman is misjudged by the great mass of Europeans as of the SPENDTHRIFT TYPE, lavishing millions of dollars on fetes, dresses and jewels because that is how she is revealed to them by newspapers, just as the untraveled American imagines the typical Frenchman to be a FROG EATING FELLOW who affects peg topped trousers, weird top hats and spends most of his time dueling.

30, 30, 30, IT IS TRUE THAT, AS A WHOLE, THE AMERICAN PEOPLE SPEND MONEY FREELY, BUT I READ THAT AS A SIGN THAT THEY ARE MORE HIGHLY CIVILIZED THAN MORE PARSIMONIOUS PEOPLE.

Huerta and Constitutionalist Envoys to Meet Next Week.

Predicted That Within Two Weeks a Provisional Government For Mexico Will Have Been Proclaimed and Recognized by the United States. American and Mexican Delegates Sign Peace Protocol.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 26 .- The ment of the difficulties which have arisen between the United States and Mexico is at an end. The South American diplomats who undertook two months ago to bring together repre sentatives from both countries in or der to avert an international war con cluded their negotiations with the signing of the protocol. This action, in the eyes of close ob servers of the situation, was a master stroke on the part of the A. B. C. me dators, and it is generally conceded that they have been completely successful in their share of the work One of those most prominently connected with the conference said that the entire Mexican problem would be solved within a week. The Constitutionalist delegates are expected not later than Sunday. It is believed that they will remain in Buffalo and that the Huerta delegates will go there to confer with them.

The Constitutionalist delegates who have been selected for this conference are Luis Cabrera and Rafael Zubaran Capmany. These are the two men who came to Buffalo about a week ago to confer with Justice Lanar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates to the mediation tending factions in Mexico will discuss the provisional government which is to assume control of Mexico pending the holding of an election. There are very good reasons to believe that a prompt agreement will be arrived at by this conference. Names have already been mentioned and discussed on both sides, and inasmuch as both appear to be willing to make conces sions, it is predicted by a prominent and respectfully solicit your support member of the conference that within two weeks a provisional government for Mexico will have been proclaimed and recognized by the United States.

There appears to be good reason to believe that General Villa, the virtua eader of the Constitutionalists, is ready to agree to any decision arrived at as a result of efforts of the mediators. With the acceptance of Villa assured, it is clear that Carranza could do nothing but accept in turn.

tant address to the Virginia Editorial association at the White House President Wilson detailed his reasons for insisting upon completion of the antitrust program at this session of congress. The president said:

"We are in the presence of a business situation which is variously interpreted in Washington. Through the bureau of commerce and other instrumentalities at our disposal and through advices which come in to us from all parts of the nation we are perhaps in a position to judge of the actual condition of business better than those can judge who are at any other single point in the country; and I want to say to you that as a matter of fact the signs of a very strong business revival are becoming more and more evident from day to day. On all sides it is admitted that there are processes of business in this country which ought to be corrected; but the increased the fever of apprehension.

Then came an administration which for the first time correction of admitted evil, a very fect their appeals. clear program, disclosed so far as possible in a general way in its particulars as well as in its general features. And the administration proceeded to carry out this program.'

The president referred to the enactment of the tariff bill and currency re form bill and the opposition encountered to their enactment, and said:

"Then we advanced to the trust program and again the same dread the same hesitation, the same urgency that the thing be postponed. It will not be postponed, and it will not be postponed because we are the friends of business. We know what we are ditch by the roadside. doing; we propose to do it under the advice of men who Amderstand the business of the country, and we know that the effect is going to be exactly what the effect of the currency reform was-a sense of relief and security.

"Because when the program is finished, it is finished; the interrogation points are rubbed off the slate; busi ness is given its constitutional freedom

By Associated Press. New York, June 26 .- An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed here today against the Defender Manufacturing Company of this city, makers of underwear, a subsidiary of the big H. B. Claffin Company, which failed yesterday.

The receiver in equity proceedings was appointed at the time of the Claffin failure, but contended that the company was solvent. Creditors now seek to have it adjudged bankrupt. Counsel for the Claffin interests it is understood, will oppose the
